

Associateships, Partnerships and Start Ups

At some point in his/her career, every dentist will go through the process of beginning practice. The search for just the right practice situation, the negotiations involved, the final decision, the announcement in the community--all are ponderous, time consuming steps. The following articles, examples of letters and announcements, checklists and other material by Ann Page Griffin will help facilitate the process for both the junior-new practitioner and the senior-experienced one.
